THE INFLUENZA EPIDEMIC.

WORST PHASE REACHED.

FROM "THE TIMES" OF TO-DAY.

(BY SPECIAL ARRANGEMENT WITH THE PROPRIETORS OF THE TIMES.)

SEDAN.

The capture of the western part of Sedan by the First American Army on Wednesday, says The Times, is a dramatic incident in the great advance of the Allies, which has been sweeping forward since the close of last week. It is, indeed, a striking sign of the transformation which is taking place in the world that the house of the La Marcks and the Tour d'Auvergnes, where Turenne was born, which Vauban fortified, and where Prussia-Germany, within living memory, struck the most crushing blow of the "hammer blows" that laid France at her feet, should be delivered from its German invaders by an army of Republicans from beyond the Atlantic. Prussian "militarism" has been defeated on the scene of its most brilliant achievement in the war that made it the idol of Germany. "The justice of it passes." There is, at least, a possibility that Sedan may witness another military calamity, for the pursuers of the Allies are not suspended by an armistice. Ever since the Germans abandoned the salient between Château Regnault and Attigny, which protected their general retreat from their former front, behind the Scheldt and the Meuse, their position has become very serious. The advance of General Gouraud's Army on the American left towards Charleville, the former German headquarters, and Mézières is threatening the chief line of retreat by railway, which is still open to the masses of troops now converging upon it from all the German Armies. At Hirson, farther north, the line to Chimay and Dinant—the line which Marshal Foch has instituted the derivation travel—may afford a way of escape to some of them. But the French are moving upon Hirson from both sides, and, with the exception of that line, all the available railways to Germany pass through Charleville-Mézières. The railway from this point onwards to the frontier is that down the valley of the Meuse, which may already be under the effective fire of a trench. The bridge across the river at Sedan and the railway bridge have been destroyed, so that communication between the town to the north and Metz is interrupted. It is now as though the Germans had delayed their retreat from the Laon salient too long, and had the rapid advance of the Allies on their converted their plans. They may still extricate themselves, but their situation is obviously full of danger.

SUSPENSE.

All the world, says The Times, awaits, with impatience, news that Germany has taken the next step towards peace. There is but one—and every hour that she delays to take it makes her baser and more dangerous. As yet there is no authoritative news that she has learnt its terms on which she can obtain the cessation of hostilities which she so urgently needs. The rumours which filled London yesterday afternoon—to the effect that she had signed the armistice, were manifestly premature, for they were circulated before the delegates could have reached their destination, though not, it is believed, before they were on the way to Marshal Foch's Staff officers. A wireless message states that they left Berlin on Wednesday evening to negotiate the armistice and "the commencement of peace negotiations," and to this information Admiral Paul Behncke, the Chief Delegate, Herr Ersberger, is one of them. The only official information as to the course of their journey is contained in Marshal Foch's communication to the German Headquarters, prescribing their route, and requiring that it should continue as to the sincerity of the German pleas until we learn that the armistice has been formally concluded. The reasons military and domestic, why the Government should seem to accelerate it with the least possible haste of once are so plain and so imperious that only explanation could induce them to postpone it to make attempts to bargain over the terms to have been irrevocably fixed. They are to take or to leave within a definite period, which we may assume from precedent to be three days from yesterday afternoon.

DISTURBANCES AT COLOGNE.

Reports continue to reach me of internal disturbance in Germany, telegraphs the Hague Correspondent of The Times, the latest being from Cologne. A Dutchman, just arrived from that city, told me to-day that the population was completely out of hand, and that disturbances were continually occurring. Matters came rapidly to a head lately, owing to the crumbling of Germany's carefully constructed Continental system. Germany was defeated by land, followed with defeat in the field, and starvation at home, and daily air raids have reduced the population of Cologne to desperation. From all my informant heard, this state of things is general. Here is his account:—The people are simply sick of war. They have been demanding peace so long that they are determined to have it now that there is a prospect of Germany being invaded. All the popularity we enjoyed by the military commanders has entirely disappeared, and it has given place to positive hatred. The people say they have been grossly deceived. They were told that the war would bring them prosperity, but since it has brought them nothing but misery, and they are determined that it shall be one. They are intensely irritated by the hoarding up of men employed in war industries by service again at the front. Last week 10,000 men employed at one factory known to such men employed at one factory known to have been summoned to the colours, and refused to obey the summons. I afterwards heard that forty had been shot. On Sunday a serious disturbance occurred at the Wallraf Richartz Museum, which contains many beautiful works of art, paintings, sculptures, and antiquities. A large crowd entered the building, and wreaked their vengeance on the Kaiser and the Hohenzollern family by destroying their portraits. Pictures were cut to pieces, and much other damage was done. I saw this with my own eyes. The people were simply beside themselves with rage. They carried red flags, which they waved excitedly as they rushed through the rooms, considering that a revolution had arrived. A detachment of soldiers, about 200 strong, was turned out to quell the riot. The soldiers, however, when ordered to fire, refused to obey their officers, who walked off helpless. The soldiers then drew their rifles and other parts of their equipment, and joined the mob, which then marched to another part of the city, where it looted down the German flag, which was floating over a large public building, and hoisted the red flag in its place. I am quite sure things have gone too far now to be checked. The Kaiser's abdication seems to be inevitable, while the Crown Prince's name is universally cursed for his father's misfortunes, since there is no one more detested than he is in Germany.

BUTTER RETAIL PRICES FIXED.

The fixing of the retail prices of 2s. 6d. and 2s. 4d. per lb. for butter sold in the second half of this month and during the month of December respectively is a measure that meets with the approval of the consuming public, though some persons can only view so high a price with satisfaction by having regard to abnormal conditions. A retailer very familiar with the butter trade could find no objection to urge against the prices fixed, and said that the situation in regard to supplies was better than a year ago, since control of export did not become fully effective at first. He knew of big supplies in cold storage in Dublin at present, and considered that the price limits were reasonable. They have been fixed by the Food Control Committee for Ireland after consultation with an Advisory Committee representing the interests involved, and were published in our advertising columns yesterday. The order permits a charge of 4d. per lb. to be made for delivery from a shop, but not when the butter is sold from a van, and a charge of 4d. per lb. may be made by giving credit, but not in addition to the charge made for delivery. The actual cost of delivery by post or rail may be added to the total sum given.

THE ARMISTICE POURPARLERS.

GERMAN DELEGATES ARRIVE.

PRINCE MAX'S MANIFESTO.

THE MENACE TO BAVARIA.

TROOPS ENTER THE TYROL.

Yesterday afternoon a responsible news agency issued the announcement that an armistice with Germany had been signed at 2.30 that day. This telegram was printed in the evening papers, but was shortly afterwards cancelled as unauthorised.

At 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon, the Press Association informs us authoritatively, neither the British nor French Governments had any confirmation of the report.

Downing street and Versailles had been, the Press Association states, in recent telephonic communication in regard to the matter, and it was possible to say definitely that the rumour was not in accordance with fact. Up to that hour the German representatives had not even presented themselves to ascertain from Marshal Foch the Allied terms, and it was, moreover, a physical impossibility for them to have done so on the basis of information to hand as to their movements.

The latest authoritative information is that the delegation from Berlin has actually left for the front, and that Marshal Foch has indicated to them by wireless telegraphy the road by which they are to approach the French lines.

It is, however, safe to assume that by now they have passed through the lines, and have reached Marshal Foch's headquarters.

FOCH'S MESSAGE TO GERMAN DELEGATES.

The following is news transmitted through the wireless stations of the French Government (Press Association war special):—

The French Army-in-Chief has communicated to the German Headquarters the following message:—

"If the German plenipotentiaries wish to meet Marshal Foch to ask him for an armistice they are to advance to the French outposts by the Chimay-Fourmies-La Capelle-Guise road.

"Orders have been given that they are to be received and conducted to the place fixed for the interview.

Reuter's Agency learns that, according to information current in political circles in London, the German parlementaires have left for the Allies' lines.

It is believed that the stat of disaffection in the German Army is now so widespread that the Allied victories in the field, has not been without effect in influencing the German Government.

THE GERMAN DELEGATION.

Wireless news transmitted through the wireless stations of the German Government contains the following (Press Association war special):—

The German delegation for the conclusion of armistice terms for the opening of peace negotiations have left Berlin for the West. The delegation consists of—General von Gudel, Military Delegate at The Hague; Admiral Behncke, the former German Military Attaché in Paris—General von Winterfeldt, Admiral Maurer, and Count Oberndorff, Foreign State Secretary, von Hintze. From the composition of our plenipotentiaries for the West it is concluded that the first question for the opening of peace negotiations will follow shortly. The War Cabinet was occupied to-day with a conference on the reply Note of President Wilson.

Another message from Berlin, transmitted through the wireless stations of the German Government, says:—

The German delegation for the conclusion of an armistice and the commencement of peace negotiations, which left for the front, arrived at 5 p.m. on November 6, consists of the Bavarian representative and Secretary of State, Erzberger, and Foreign Ambassador in Sofia, Count Oberndorff; General von Gudel, and Major-General von Winterfeld.

SIR ROSSLYN WEMYSS TO BE NAVAL ASSOCIATE.

It is officially stated that Sir Rosslyn Wemyss has been appointed Naval representative, to be associated with Marshal Foch, of the German Government make application for an armistice.

PRINCE MAX'S APPEAL.

A Berlin official telegram, through Reuter's Amsterdam Correspondent, announces that the Imperial Chancellor has addressed the following appeal to the German people:—

President Wilson has replied to-day to the German Note, and has stated that the terms are agreed, with the exception of a point on the freedom of the seas, to the fourteen points in which he had down his principles on January 8, and that the terms of armistice will be communicated by Marshal Foch. Thus a condition precedent for peace and armistice negotiations has been created.

"In order to put an end to bloodshed, the German delegations for the armistice and for an armistice and the initiation of peace negotiations has been appointed to-day and has left for the West. The whole world is seriously endangered in their successful course by disturbances and indiscipline.

"For more than four years the German nation, united and calm, has endured the severest sufferings and sacrifices of war. If at a decisive hour, when only a few hours separate from the entire German people the great dangers for its future, our internal strength gives way, then the enemy success cannot be foreseen. The indispensable demand in those decisive hours which must be made by every people's Government is the maintenance of the calm which has hitherto prevailed under voluntary discipline. May every citizen be conscious of the high responsibility which he bears towards his people in fulfilment of this duty.

"Imperial Chancellor."

ANXIETY IN BAVARIA.

TROOPS ENTER THE TYROL.

A Reuter's Zurich telegram says—The Bavarian Independent Press betrays the greatest anxiety regarding the security of the country since the conclusion of the armistice with Austria-Hungary.

The Fraenkische Tageszeitung, of Nuremberg, says that the Kaiser, in delaying his abdication, which endangers the unity of Germany and threatens Bavaria's existence, has consented Italian troops, from the Entente troops in Serbia, from Czechs and South Slavs, and, perhaps, even from the Prussian militarists. It is a feeling of deepest depression in Bavaria. On the other hand, as Berlin is making no progress towards peace, it must soon Munich.

The Tagespost deplores such feeling, as it involves the danger that the Entente will only negotiate with Bavaria when the separated from the German Empire, and this would mean a much greater sacrifice than the loss of Alsace-Lorraine (such are the phrases of the paper remarks) William will finally see to what perils he is exposing Germany. If he remains Kaiser, he will go down to history with the infamous title of "Destroyer of the Empire."

The Bavarian Minister of War has issued the following proclamation:—

The armistice conditions imposed on our former Austrian Allies is pressure on the military to threaten our southern and eastern frontiers. The Bavarian people, who have shown such admirable self-sacrifice in the war, can also face this possibility with confidence. There is no cause for uneasiness. Measures have been taken for the protection of the frontiers of the homeland. The people can have the greatest confidence that they will be informed unreservedly if there is danger contrary to expectation, be directly endangered. Be calm, therefore, and have confidence.

The Innsbrucker Nachrichten says:—The Bavarian Ministry for War has sent a telegram to the President of the Tyrol National Council urging the conditions of the armistice being stating. The conditions of the armistice between Austria-Hungary and the Entente compel Bavaria to send troops to the Northern Tyrol for the protection of the Bavarian frontier. These troops will, at the same time, aid in maintaining order, in view of the inrush of disbanded Austrian soldiers returning from the front. Advance guards will cross the frontier on November 6th, followed by strong forces. We come as friends, and expect to meet no obstacle in our advance from the German-Austrian National Council, but in such event our troops have been ordered to force a passage.

It is learned from Enschede (says a Reuter's Amsterdam telegram) that two hundred wagons, with grain and other war material, have arrived at the little frontier town of Gronsan from the KIEL REVOLT.

PROCLAMATION BY SOLDIERS.

REPORTED CAUSE OF THE OUTBREAK.

NAVAL OFFICERS AND THE NEW GOVERNMENT.

TROUBLE SPREADS TO HAMBURG.

Warships in Kiel Harbour are, says a Reuter's Amsterdam telegram, flying the Red Flag. The Kieler Neueste Nachrichten says that the State Secretary, Herr Haussmann, and the Reichstag Deputy, Herr Noske, on their arrival at Kiel Station, were met by the demonstrators. Herr Noske, in a speech, declared that an armistice would be concluded in a few days, and that all the just wishes of soldiers and workers would be speedily fulfilled. He further urged the necessity of maintaining calm.

Cheers for Noske frequently interrupted Herr Noske's speech. For unknown reasons, says the report, a number of shots was fired, and the crowd scattered in all directions. There was also frequent firing later, but it is not known whether any persons were killed or wounded.

The Soldiers' Council has issued a proclamation, saying:—

Comrades, our hour has struck. Authority is in our hands. Gather round your elected leaders. Commit no imprudences. Calm and iron nerves are the demand of the hour. The troops sent to suppress our movement have joined us. All workers and trade unions are on our side.

The report adds that officers at Kiel have surrendered their arms, and the General Post Office and the railway station have been occupied by Marines.

The Kieler Zeitung, reporting the progress of events in Kiel, says that the streets are guarded by sailors and workers on strike, but no disorders are occurring. Sailors, the paper continues, are wearing red arm bands. Officers are being disarmed or arrested. Warrant officers and petty officers who have not joined the movement are also being disarmed. Trams are not running, but traffic is otherwise normal.

Reports from the Danish frontier state that some cases of insubordination occurred yesterday among a German naval division at Lokeren, between Ghent and Termonde. German papers report that Lieut.-General Gustav Alfonsen, in despair at his Fatherland's disgrace, has committed suicide at the age of 62.

SOLDIERS SEIZE POWER.

An Exchange Copenhagen telegram states:—It is reported that the whole of the Schleswig Navy Command and part of Schleswig is now in the hands of the Revolutionaries. Workshops are occupied by soldiers and troops, and rail-stations are under the control of the Workmen's Council. A number of warships hoisted red banners early yesterday morning. Soldiers and Reds control the food supply. The Military Governor, Sauerbon, has been imprisoned. The Socialist Party has issued a proclamation declaring that the political power is in the hands of the soldiers.

A telegram to the Cologne Gazette states, says a Reuter's Amsterdam telegram of Thursday, that the Reichstag Deputy, Herr Noske, has arrived at Kiel, and presided over a General Committee of Trades Unions, went to Kiel yesterday.

All authority over the town of Kiel and the Fleet is in the hands of the Soldiers' Council. On Tuesday the warships hoisted the Red Flag, and the Imperial standard was hauled down, and the Royal Police has placed itself under the control of the Soldiers' Council, and a general strike has taken place. Motor cars, with armed sailors, rush through the streets.

The battleship Koenig, which is lying in the Royal Dockyard, was fired on with rifles when it hoisted the war flag, and the flag was finally hauled down.

There was a noisy meeting at Hamburg, which dispersed after a resolution had been condemned by the Hamburg Courts under martial law.

CAUSE OF THE DISTURBANCES.

An Exchange Copenhagen telegram says:—Latest reports from Kiel state that the revolutionary movement has spread to the whole part of Holstein, while numbers of the garrisons along the South Baltic coasts deserted to go to Kiel. In Warnemunde the Red Flag has been hoisted.

It is stated that the disturbances at Kiel were caused by the refusal of the sailors' delegates to obey the new Government in Berlin, and to accept its peace efforts. It is stated, on the contrary, that the Kiel sailors wish to make a great naval attack on England, and as soon as the soldiers heard this meetings were arranged, and armed action decided on.

BERLIN STATEMENT.

A Berlin telegram says that it is feared from the latest developments in the entire situation in Kiel that the protection of the Baltic by the German Navy has been quite removed. There are dangerous signs of anarchy. The movement amongst sailors and workers is free from disorders. Men of the garrison have endeavoured to prevent the disturbance of order. Arms are being gradually surrendered. Private houses, businesses, and hospitals are untouched, and the banks are almost all at work. The provisioning of the barracks of the town has been carried on in the usual manner. The food supply of the civilian population has so far not been disturbed. Factory work is also still on strike. The populace, however, is calm.

ATTEMPT TO SUPPRESS REVOLT.

An Exchange Copenhagen telegram says the German authorities are trying to suppress the revolution at Kiel and the surrounding districts. For that purpose additional garrisoned at Fehmarn Island have been ordered to go to Kiel. The Workmen and Soldiers' Council has decided to make a stubborn resistance.

TROUBLE AT HAMBURG.

A Hamburg telegram (through Reuter's Amsterdam Correspondent) says that factory hands there have struck, and acts of violence have been committed. The same is reported from Lubeck, and from Bremen, where the dock works, the telegram declares, private property has not been damaged, and the population is not in a panic.

An Exchange Copenhagen telegram says:—The Politiken's Correspondent in Vandrup, near Aalborg, reports that the railway line there is broken out in Hamburg. When the person who informed the correspondent about the new revolution left the city violent artillery fire resulted in the streets of Hamburg, but no details are to hand.

COUP D'ETAT PLANNED.

The Deutsche Tageszeitung says:—In Communist circles the watchword has been given out that the repeatedly announced coup d'etat is to occur on November 7, the anniversary of the Russian Revolution. The journal adds that various dates had previously been given in order to confuse the authorities.

THE AMERICAN ELECTIONS.

News received yesterday by the American Committee on Public Information in London indicated that the Republicans have won the House of Representatives, Tuesday's elections returning 219 Republicans to 185 Democrats, with one Socialist, one Independent, and 31 constituencies doubtful. Republicans are thus assured of a majority. The two parties are at present evenly divided in the Senate, each having 46 seats, with four States doubtful. Upon these four Senators, as yet unreturned, depends the result in the Upper House.

A Reuter's Washington telegram last night states—The latest returns show that the Republicans have a majority of 16 in the House of Representatives, and that in the Senate the Republicans have elected 47 members and the Democrats 46. The elections in Michigan, Idaho, and New Mexico are still undecided.

CHAOS IN AUSTRIA.

SCENES AT VIENNA RAILWAY STATIONS.

FAMINE-STRICKEN TOWNS.

The Lokalanzeiger publishes the following telegram of Sunday's date from Vienna:—Indescribable scenes are occurring at Vienna railway stations. Soldiers still everything they have plundered. In railway carriages or at military depôts bloody collisions are taking place between soldiers. The feeling of the population of Vienna is indescribable. Nobody knows whom to obey, the Imperial Government or State Council, the Imperial Army Command or the Secretary of State for War.

The telegram adds:—In the Czechs-Slovak State on the other hand things are developing in an orderly manner, for there everything has been prepared and organised months in advance.

The Rheinisch Westfaelische Zeitung says excesses occurred at Vienna railway station on Monday, where big crowds of Russian prisoners of war, about to be repatriated, and others had gathered. The Russians attempted to loot the railway sheds, when a number of machine-gun companies appeared on the approaches to the station. The Russian prisoners attempted to overpower the military, which opened fire, killing and wounding many.

ARCHDUKE'S "ADVICE" TO EMPEROR KARL.

The Prague paper Venkov says the Archduke Frederick gave the following "friendly advice" in the course of a letter to the Emperor Charles:—"All can yet be saved. Give an order to shoot on all who are in favour of a republic. Adopt the severest measures. There are soldiers who still obey you. The nation must be kept in fear and the mind not be afraid of it. Follow my advice. Everything can be saved, the throne, dynasty, and monarchy—under the names of note—are now with-in our reach.

The Venkov learns from well-informed circles in Vienna that the Hungarian revolutionaries have got hold of this letter.

APPEAL FOR FAMINE-STRICKEN TOWNS.

A Reuter's Berne telegram, of Wednesday says:—A delegation from the population of Vorarlberg have presented a petition to the Swiss Federal Council begging for the despatch of foodstuffs from Switzerland to Vorarlberg in view of the terrible distress there. The Federal Council declared itself ready immediately to transmit to the Governments of the Swiss Confederation, to the Canton Vorarlberg and Tyrol, adding that it would willing lend its means of transport for the purpose of relief. The Swiss Government has decided upon the mobilisation at 9 a.m. on November 8th, at their mustering places of the 7th and 16th Infantry Brigades, the 7th Cavalry Brigade, and the 1st and 2nd Cavalry Brigades, with machine guns.

EMPRESS ZITA IN SEARCH OF A HOME.

The Austrian Imperial Family is almost entirely deserted, says a Vienna telegram to the Berliner Lokal Anzeiger. Many of the nobility have sought shelter in Switzerland.

The Prague Tagsblatt learns that the Empress Zita is expecting her child in the end of March as to whether any objection would be raised against her staying at Brandnitz, near Prague, in her children. For some time the reply made was that she would be welcome if she came as a private person.

TERRIBLE TRAIN ACCIDENT.

A Vienna telegram says:—A serious railroad accident occurred near Steinbrunn and Bluu (Hungary) on Wednesday. Vienna papers reports that a passenger train, crowded with Austrian officers returning from the front, the roofs, steps, and buffers of the cars, was suddenly cut in two owing to the breaking of an axle. The front part was then rushed off at tremendous speed. The first three were derailed and smashed, and were then run into by the following train. Nearly dead and 150 wounded have up to the present been recovered from the débris.

THE "IRISH TIMES" RED CROSS FUND.

APPEAL TO IRISH FARMERS.

The Central Committee of the Irish Farmers' Gift Sale Section are arranging for the holding of a great sale of cattle, farm stock, and dairy produce, etc., at various centres in the provinces of Leinster, Munster, and Connaught, in aid of the fund for our wounded soldiers.

A Munster sale will be held on the 6th Thursday, the 12th December. The dates and centres of the provincial fixtures will be announced in due course.

It is hoped that the farmers of Ireland, who have been saved from the horrors of war through the noble heroism and self-sacrifice of these gallant men, will fully realise their duty and something (however small) as a token of their appreciation. Money is still urgently needed to carry on the work of relief in the hour of suffering humanity—a merciful duty that will still be necessary even after peace is declared.

Applications for gift sales should be made now to Mr. George Clark, Hon. Secretary, Irish Farmers' Gift Sale Section, 14 Dawson street, Dublin.

"OUR DAY" RED CROSS CONCERT.

Last night's concert in the Dublin Mansion House, in aid of the "Our Day" Red Cross Fund, was held on a par with regard to patronage and the quality of the programme, a notable success, and a good augury of the numerous other forthcoming entertainments for the same laudable object are certain to receive. The large audience gave evidence of the public's appreciation of the work, by reason of recent events on the Western front, during the brief address by Mr. S. W. Maldeck, D.L., that followed the first item in the programme to appeal for Red Cross work in Dublin. "Our Day," he said, is a special appeal for funds that have been made all over the United Kingdom for the Red Cross. The appeal is for our soldiers and nurses—for those splendid fellows who have been and are fighting a great fight for us all for the last four years to preserve our liberties. (Applause.) They were going to-day to Dublin or Belfast in concerts within the next few weeks in aid of the Red Cross. They ought to thank God for the position of the splendid fellows they had. He believed that the war was over, and he asked them all to give a cheer for the boys who were fighting their battles for us, and for the nurses also—a request to which the audience responded enthusiastically.

The programme, which was diversified and enjoyable, was contributed to by Miss Jean Rohb (Theatre Royal Company), Miss Alice (of the Tivoli), Mr. C. Robinson (from the Tivoli), Misses M. Power, Keane, and O'Carroll; Miss B. Murphy, Miss Burke, Miss Jo. White, Mrs. J. Stuart, the "Two Tees" (Messrs. Law and Devine), and Messrs. J. Gaffney, W. J. Jewell, M. Gaffney, A. Jackson, J. M. Dingle, and C. Duning; Miss E. M. Crowley and Mr. P. J. Mulcahy acting efficiently as pianists.

BRITISH RED CROSS SOCIETY (COUNTY DUBLIN BRANCH).

The monthly meeting of the County Dublin Branch of the B.R.C.S. was held at 51 Dawson street on Tuesday, 5th November—the Right Hon. Jonathan Hogg in the chair. Also present—Lady Talbot de Malahide, Miss Draper (Hon. Sec.), A. J. C. Mitchell, Mr. A. Oswald, Mrs. Worrall, Hon. Mrs. Barry, Mrs. Maddick, Miss Moorhead, Mrs. Gerald Pilkington, Sir John Moore, M.D.; Mr. Thomas J. Plunkett, Mrs. Maude, Mrs. Johnston, Mrs. Mulhall, Mr. Mulhall, Mr. Gamble, Mr. F. W. Ferry, and Mr. Jack Beresford.

On the motion of Lady Talbot de Malahide, seconded by Sir John Moore, M.D., a vote of condolence was passed with the Earl of Meath and the members of his family on the death of the Countess of Meath, who, as President of the branch from its foundation until quite recently, had always taken such a deep interest in Red Cross work.

A Member of the County Dublin V.A Detachments Nos. 3, 7, 22, and 30. The reports from the Kingstown Detachment (County Dublin V.A.D. No. 3, Commandant, Dr. Dampier Bennett) and the Pembroke Detachment (County Dublin V.A.D. No. 7, Commandant, Mrs. G. P. Peet) contained records of valuable work performed by members of the Detachments at Kingstown on the occasion of the Mails disaster. The Committee expressed their high appreciation of the work done, and ordered these reports to be placed on the minutes.

The Hon. Secretary reported that an appeal had been received from the Canadian Red Cross Society, England, to assist in providing hospitality in Dublin and neighbourhood for Canadian officers on route to other parts of Ireland. These officers usually spend two or three days in Dublin en route to other parts of Ireland, and greatly appreciate any hospitality that may be offered to them. It was hoped that anyone who would be willing to take in any of those gentlemen for a few nights would communicate with the Hon. Secretary.

Mr. Charles Gamble, Hon. Secretary of the Duty Free Goods Department, reported a falling off in the extent to which the public were taking advantage of the concession of duty free tobacco and tea, and that the number of gifts of these commodities to hospitals has considerably decreased, and called attention to the fact that gifts of both tea and tobacco, free of duty, can be obtained through the medium of the Red Cross Office, 51 Dawson street, at a very much reduced cost.

Lady Talbot de Malahide announced that Lady Shaw, of Bushy Park, Terenure, had, at her nomination, accepted the position of Deputy President of this branch.

CAPTURE OF SEDAN.

METZ RAILWAY SEVERED.

BRITISH REACH THE MONS-CONDE CANAL.

FRENCH NEARER TO MAUBEUGE.

The outstanding feature of to-day's news from the Western fronts is the capture of Sedan by the Americans. Their advanced troops, on Wednesday evening, took that portion of the city which lies on the west bank of the Meuse. This stroke has deprived the enemy of his principal lateral line of communication between Metz Fortress and his troops in Northern France and Belgium.

All French territory west of the Meuse which lay within the American war zone is now cleared of the enemy.

Our British Armies yesterday gained valuable ground along the whole front south of the arrow-straight canal which links the towns of Condé-sur-l'Escaut and Mons. They took Elouges and Hensies, and northward of the last-named village they reached the line of the canal.

South of the Sambre they are at the La Capelle-Maubeuge road, on both sides of Avesnes, and have gained the western outskirts of that town.

On the east bank of the Meuse the Americans continued their victorious attack. They succeeded in extending their bridgehead east of Dun.

We brought the enemy to a standstill at the woods east of Marcq-en-Barœul yesterday.

East of Sivry the tried Brandenburg Infantry Division No. 228 completely maintained its position.

AMERICANS ON THE MEUSE.

"SWEEPING TIDE OF VICTORY."

Writing on November 7th, Mr. Maximilian Foster, correspondent with the First American Forces, says:—The troops of this Army, following hard on the heels of the disorganised German forces, entered Sedan at four o'clock this morning, and before nightfall they had lined the bank of the Meuse through the town. The roads and railway bridge have been blown up, and the flooded river temporarily halts the advance of the "Doughboys," who have pushed ahead nearly thirty miles in their week's drive, and hold the Meuse line as far down the river as Sedan, and are engaged in hard fighting for the last of the heights above the Lorraine plain, now held by the Germans, east of the river, in the neighbourhood of Dun. Thus the main objective of the whole campaign—cutting the German main line of railway behind the front from Metz to the armies of Belgium—has been accomplished. The Germans themselves obligingly performed this feat for us by blowing up the railway bridge over the Meuse at Sedan an hour or two before we entered the town. The German forces are now cooped up against the wooded and hilly Ardennes, where there are no good roads. All day on Tuesday the German rearguards strove vainly to hold up the pursuit and gain time. They were unable to interpose at any point a barrier strong enough to stay the sweeping tide of victory. All the eight divisions brought from the reserve and thrust into action to stop the breach were on this day dissolved and swept aside by increasing hordes of Yankee clamouring at the heels of the Huns. East of the Meuse, where

THE GENERAL ELECTION.

MR. DILLON'S REGARD FOR SOLDIERS.

THE CHANCELLOR SURPRISED.

In the House of Commons yesterday,

Mr. Dillon asked the Leader of the House whether, in view of the near approach of the general election, the Government could now state when the present session would be brought to a close, and what business they proposed to conclude.

Mr. Bonar Law—The Government propose to take only the legislation which has already been announced, and possibly some emergency bills now under consideration. They hope that the session may be closed the week after next, but they do not consider it desirable to name a definite date until they know whether or not the terms of the armistice agreed to by the Allies are received or rejected by Germany.

Mr. Dillon—Can the right hon. gentleman say definitely whether there is to be a general election before Christmas, and can he name the date of the election? (Nationalist cheers.)

Mr. Bonar Law—No, I certainly can make no statement on that subject.

Mr. Dillon—I beg to give notice that at the end of questions I shall ask leave to move the adjournment of the House on this subject.

Mr. Dillon afterwards obtained consent to move the adjournment of the House.

MR. DILLON.

Mr. Dillon, in moving his motion for the adjournment of the House, said in order to discuss the coming election, said that there had never been an occasion on which it was more necessary that the public should have ample time to discuss and understand the great issue on which they would be called upon to vote. The Government ought to define those issues as clearly as possible. He considered it an act of madness to allow the Army to take part in an election at present. The only way in which that could be done, without danger to the efficiency of the Army, was to postpone the election until after peace had been concluded. If the Government were to attempt to snatch an election now hundreds of thousands of soldier voters would be disfranchised. The whole thing would be a farce and a swindle to them. The whole postal service between England and France would be disorganised. What necessity was there for having an election at such short notice, unless it was that the Prime Minister was afraid of losing his market if he waited longer. He (Mr. Dillon) was going to behind the backs of the people negotiations for a secret bargain between the different wings of the Coalition, and that would be more difficult the longer it was anticipated. Secret diplomacy was being carried on, but this was not open, honourable diplomacy. The public were being hoodwinked by those intrigues. He warned the Government against the use of the experience of election tricks in 1900. Moreover, the register was in a state of absolute chaos.

MR. BONAR LAW.

Mr. Bonar Law said that he agreed with a great deal of what the hon. member had said. It was most undesirable, always in a party system in a democratic form of government. During the last twelve months a party truce had existed, but it had not existed, but it only had the effect of adding another party. But, on the other hand, it would be an amazing thing if, after the experience we had gone through which this country and the world had passed for the last four years, there were not a change in the Parliament which, he knew, was inevitable, and it was what was happening. The hon. member had read from The Times that the Unionist Members wanted to go to the country at once. That was natural. Every public man incurred the displeasure of his constituents for the moment, but there was no kind of sense-hunt commenced until the offender was driven out of office. He strongly suspected that Lord Northcliffe was anxious to drive Lord Milner out of his office, in order that he (Lord Northcliffe) might get into the War Cabinet, so that he might be present at the Peace Conference. The whole thing was a disgrace to politics and to journalism.

Mr. Dillon—At a crisis like this there should be fair play, fair criticism, honest dealing, and decent living, (Cheers.)

Mr. Dillon said that he had never heard the proceedings of the syndicated Press so ably described as by the last speaker. But the operation of that Press was not a new thing. They were worse against the last Government. The present Government, including the Prime Minister, dare not touch Lord Northcliffe, because he was their master. Lord Northcliffe was allowed to stroll about at the Napoleon of this Empire and of the world.

Mr. Baldwin, Financial Secretary to the Treasury, said that the life of the Ministry of information could not be a prolonged one, and the Government intended to bring it to an end as soon as possible. The Ministry of Foreign Propaganda was in a similar plight, and so far as the present was concerned Lord Northcliffe was defunct. The article recently written by Lord Northcliffe was written and published before he had any private capacity, and there was nothing could be added to the very complete and comprehensive answer given by the Chancellor of the Exchequer. Mr. Dillon apparently wanted to add to the long list of Controllers a Controller of Lord Northcliffe. If they were to judge by the articles that had appeared in the German Press, this country had every reason to be satisfied by the way in which Lord Northcliffe conducted propaganda in enemy countries. If his campaign had brought peace nearer by a day by breaking the morale of the enemy, it would be worth every effort and every pound spent on it.

The House rose at 11.15.

THE PEACE CONFERENCE.

Our London Correspondent understands that the Dominion Premiers are to attend the Peace Conference.

An Exchange telegram from Amsterdam, says the Germania announces that Germany's naval and military delegates to the Peace Conference will be Admiral von Boelow and General von Wrisberg.

THE ROYAL DUBLIN FUSILIERS.

A meeting of the Central Advisory Committee in connection with the Royal Dublin Fusiliers was held yesterday at 45 Kildare street, Dublin —Colonel Briggs in the chair. There were also present—Lieut.-Colonel Seaghan Cosbraine, Barr, D.L., Vice-Chairman; Lady Arnott, D.B.E., Lady Moore, Mrs. Gaisford St. Lawrence, Mrs. Goff, Miss Lennox, Miss Hamilton, the Right Hon. Jonathan Hogg, D.L.; Mr. Sealy Lefaire, Mr. Loftus Stoney, and Mrs. J. R. Clegg and Mr. J. Wallace Joint Hon. Secretaries. Apologies were received from the Countess of Mayo and Mr. Andrew Jameson, D.L.

The following resolution was proposed by Colonel Briggs, Chairman of the Committee, and seconded by Lady Arnott, D.B.E.:

That the Central Advisory Committee, Royal Dublin Fusiliers, desire to tender to their President the Earl of Meath, their most sincere condolence in the loss which he and his family have sustained through the death of Lady Meath.

Mrs. Clegg, Joint Hon. Secretary, reported that the total number of prisoners of war in charge of the Care Committee was 1,072. Of these there were still 56 men for whom camp addresses had not been obtained. Since the last meeting the addresses of eight men had come to hand.

The Presidents and Hon. Secretaries of the branches, who were present, reported in detail as to the working of their branches, and other business was transacted.

GENERAL COURTMARTIAL IN CORK.

At the Cork Military Barracks yesterday, a General Court-martial, over which Brigadier-General Travers, C.M.G., D.S.O., acted as President, assembled for the trial of Temporary Lieutenant Charles Wilson, otherwise H. A. Baker-Tyler, on the charge of having, while under arrest, broken away from his escort, and remained absent from the 29th to the 31st September last.

The evidence for the prosecution was that accused was under arrest on another charge, and left the New Barracks, Limerick, with Second Lieutenant Harvey, who was acting as escort to go to a dentist. Accused, on the street he went into Christy's garage, leaving the escort waiting outside. The latter subsequently found that the accused had left by another door, and he failed to find him.

The accused pleaded in defence that owing to his state of health he was not in his right mind at the time, and was not responsible for his actions.

Captain Todd, R.A.M.C., bore out the statement of accused as to the state of his health, but said that in his opinion he was responsible for his actions.

The decision will be promulgated later.

THE POSSESSION OF FIREARMS.

The public are reminded that an Order was made by the General Officer Commanding-in-Chief the Forces in Ireland, on the 28th September last, prohibiting all persons throughout Ireland, other than members of the Military, Naval, or Police Forces, from carrying, having in their possession,

FINANCIAL NEWS

DUBLIN STOCK EXCHANGE.

The Stock Markets were quietly firm yesterday, but business were more or less absent, though points of interest turned up in certain directions. A large business was current in the 4 per cent. Indian 5½ p.c. 1[illegible] and Irish Land 3 per cent. Consols eased, but War Loans found buyers. There was firm support for shell, especially Bank Stock and Nationals. Little or any change took place in Breweries and Distilleries. City of Dublin Steam Stock was again bid for, but did not change hands. Railways were often lower on realisations. Rails were lower in most cases, but in undertone mostly firm at the close. Great Southern Preferred, especially Deferred, rallied 2s. 6d. and closed sellers. Irish Times Pref. remained in request. The Cotton boom has come to an end.

Bank Rate (changed April 5th, 1917) ..... 5 p.c.

There is no alteration in the Bank rate, but more wanted again in the Loan market, and there was a slight increase in the demand at Lombard Street for a million bankers' balances. Discounts were quiet, but a quarter of a million has been taken for the Treasury Bill allotment to-morrow. The Bank return for the week ended November 6, 1918, showed a further contraction of 21 millions during the week in the total resources, induced to caution.
